

Tory leader's UK roadshow rolls into town

DAVID Cameron spent Tuesday evening in Old Harlow as the town hosted the first in a nationwide tour of open public meetings planned by the Conservative Party leader. More than 200 people packed into St John's Arts and Recreation Centre as the Tory chief took unscripted questions from a cross-party audience of locals.

His appearance was featured on national news bulletins.

Local Conservative Parliamentary candidate Robert Halfon later described the evening as a resounding success.

"We could have filled this hall five times over," he said. "People say there is apathy about politics these days but it's clear that is not the case in Harlow."

FAMILY TARGET OF PAEDO SLUR

AN innocent family fear they have been put in danger of vigilante attacks after letters claiming a paedophile is living in their home were circulated in the neighbourhood.

The family of three, who live in Ridgeways on the Church Langley estate in Harlow, are worried for their property and personal safety after their detached house was identified as the home of a sex offender recently released from prison.

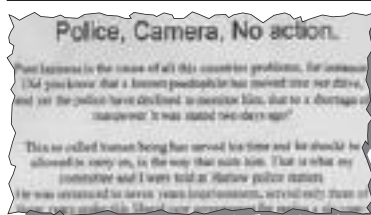

Anonymous warning letters sent to an unknown number of surrounding households on Friday name a man and describe in graphic detail offences he is said to have committed against a six-year-old boy.

But investigations by the Star this week revealed the man named in the letters does not, and never has, lived anywhere near Ridgeways. Essex Police also confirmed that the allegations are entirely fictitious and malicious.

Officers are said to be investigating the source of the letters, although it is unclear whether any criminal offence has been committed by the author.

POISON PEN: An excerpt from the letter which has been circulating in part of Church Langley

One letter which was passed on to the Star states: "He was sentenced to seven years imprisonment [and] served only three of those years under this liberal-type government for raping a six-year-old boy three times."

"I believe these type of people never change and at least I can sleep at nights knowing I have warned my fellow neighbours of the low-lives that are slowly moving into our area."

It also makes reference to the Church Langley Committee. No organisation of that name exists and the Church Langley Community Association confirmed it had no knowledge of the letters.

It is understood the family in the house received a separate letter saying their lives would be "made a living hell".

The family were unavailable for comment this week but neighbour David Martin, a serving police officer, described the letters as "disgusting".

"I know my neighbours and they are the nicest couple you could ever meet," he said. "They've lived here for years and they've got a lovely young daughter."

"These false allegations could make their lives an absolute misery and they've done nothing wrong at all. If some vigilante type got hold of one of these letters they could turn up and firebomb the house without even thinking."

A spokeswoman for Essex Police said: "We are aware of malicious letters being circulated in a Harlow street which make various allegations. We believe these to be fictitious and are looking into the matter."

HANDS ON: Conservative leader David Cameron at Tuesday's question-and-answer session in Old Harlow

Cameron does his Party piece

By BEN WILKINSON
Chief Reporter

wilkinsonb@hertsexesnews.co.uk

TUESDAY evening's news may have been dominated by events involving Barack Obama and the Democratic nomination for US president, but closer to home Harlow residents were giving their own enthusiastic response to an aspiring political leader.

Around 200 people squeezed into St John's Arts and Recreation Centre in Old Harlow as Conservative Party leader David Cameron visited the town at the start of a nationwide tour of public question-and-answer sessions.

Mr Cameron spent an hour being quizzed on various issues ranging from the European Union to law and order, pensions, health care, and housing from an audience made up of people from across the political spectrum.

Introducing himself to laughter after tongue-tied chairman Tony Hall mistakenly said his party leader would be "exposing himself", Mr Cameron told the gathering he was frustrated with the lack of direct dialogue in modern politics and wanted to resurrect the concept of public meetings.

He said he was in Harlow to convince people that change is possible, citing radical reforms to policing in New York, education in Sweden and the economy in Ireland as examples Britain could follow.

His priority would be to mend the country's "broken" society, adding: "It's as big a task, if not a bigger task, as when 25 or 30 years ago we had to fix Britain's broken economy."

Leading the questions was Colleen Morrison, who provided Mr Cameron with the opportunity to set out his stance on the EU Reform Treaty. This was followed by a question about how the Tories would tackle knife crime.

In what was largely an easy ride for Mr Cameron – despite the presence of political opponents and non-party supporters – he faced his toughest questioning on pensions and tax.

Mr Cameron's pledge to restore the link between pensions and earnings, scrapped by his own party back in 1980, failed to win over Harlow Pensioners' Action Association chairman Les Coben, while another questioner unsuccessfully demanded a promise to cut petrol duty. Mr Cameron said he "couldn't wave a magic wand".

He also faced a grilling from newly-elected Conservative councillor Russell Perrin who challenged an incoming Tory government to scrap university tuition fees, a move Mr Cameron said was not affordable.

Replying to Harlow Civic Society vice-chairman John Curry who bemoaned Harlow's impending housing growth and asked if there was another way, Mr Cameron said local people should have a much greater say as to where new houses are built and that tackling family breakdown and cutting immigration would ease housing pressure.

"Today there are five million people on out-of-work benefits who are of working age," he said. "One of the reasons we've got so many people coming into this country to work is because we're so bad at getting those people back into jobs."

Afterwards, Conservative prospective Parliamentary candidate Robert Halfon said: "This wasn't a Tory meeting, it was a genuinely open event so I was very heartened by how positive the audience reaction was."

"If I'm honest I was amazed by how much interest this generated. We had 200 people there but we could have had 1,000 if we'd had the space."

Welfare of 'panto pupils' paramount says council

HARLOW Council has defended its decision to allow a private company to use unpaid school-children to take part in a pantomime during term-time.

The youngsters will join professional members of the New Pantomime Productions cast on stage for 39 performances of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, including a week of matinees before schools break up for Christmas.

Until this year the pantomime was run as a community event and all profits were ploughed back into the venue. From now on the proceeds will be split.

A spokesman for Harlow Council said: "The welfare of the children is paramount and New Pantomime Productions will of course work closely with Essex County Council and Harlow schools to follow the correct legislation and usual child licensing arrangements.

"Many, if not most schools, welcome such an opportunity for their students as a means of development and wider life experiences.

"This is an excellent opportunity for local youngsters to develop their social interaction, confidence and self esteem. It also offers them the chance of working directly with professional artists, choreographers, producers and technicians."

Beautician stole gems from friend

A BEAUTICIAN who stole jewellery and cash totalling more than £40,000 from a friend has been told she must appear at Crown Court for sentence.

Chantale Morris was arrested outside a shop where she had sold some of the jewellery she had taken from Jane Milligan for just £2,200.

Morris (38), of Ladyshot, Harlow, pleaded guilty to two charges of theft when she appeared at Harlow Court on Thursday. The magistrates committed the case to Chelmsford Crown Court for sentence.

Prosecutor Rupert Kent told the court that Morris met her victim while working as a nail technician at a beauty salon in Harlow. She stole the jewellery, including Rolex watches and designer gems, from Ms Milligan's home in Wicken Bonhunt after being invited to stay.

Ms Milligan did not realise her jewellery was missing until several weeks later, by which time Morris had stolen a further £1,300 from her bag while she was having her hair cut at the salon.

Although Ms Milligan recovered £30,000 worth of the jewellery and was paid back the £1,300 after Morris confessed her crimes to her, the remaining items had already been melted down.

Andrew Clouser, representing Morris, made a request to the court that she should be released on unconditional bail until her appearance at the crown court on July 10, an application which was granted by the magistrates.

Speaking afterwards, Ms Milligan said she felt let down by Morris whom she had considered a friend.

"She seemed like such a nice friend but I'm absolutely livid and gutted that I trusted her so much," she said. "I can't believe how someone could abuse my trust so much."

All smiles at fun day

A FAMILY fun day organised by the Harlow branch of the Royal British Legion returned after a four-year break.

More than 500 people flocked to the group's newly refurbished headquarters at Radburn Pavilion for Sunday's extravaganza which was opened by MP Bill Rammell and included a football tournament, line dancing display and face-painting.

A series of delays to the programme of extension and improvements at the club has meant that the fun day has not been held since 2004.

You can make a difference on the Midnight Walk

IT'S NOW OR NEVER! The deadline for entries to the Midnight Walk in aid of St Clare Hospice later this month ends tomorrow.

Already more than 1,200 people have registered to take part... and if you're quick you can join them.

"We have been amazed by the response we have had and it looks like we are going to have a fantastic time," said communications manager Giles Wright. "We are now marshals will be stationed along the route - which starts and finishes at The Water Gardens - to guide and assist participants when necessary. The Midnight Walk is accessible to wheelchair users. "Our team has been working really hard now for over two months putting together the town's first Midnight Walk and the biggest event in the history of St Clare Hospice," said Giles.

"We are hoping that with sponsorship we will raise well over £50,000. We are very grateful to all those who have helped with the registration process so far - our volunteers, the Star and Observer and Ten-17fm." Even if you don't want to take part in

Midnight Walk

How to register

BY PHONE: Sign up by ringing the Midnight Walk hotline on (01279) 773759

ONLINE: Visit the website www.stclare-hospice.co.uk and follow the links to the Midnight Walk the Walk itself you can still do your bit to help the hospice by volunteering to help with marshalling or giving out the goodie bags to all the walkers. If you want to offer your services, call Caroline on (01279) 773759."

Every year the hospice provides care and support for hundreds of patients with life-limiting illnesses and their families in West Essex and East Herts. It costs more than £2m annually to provide these services yet it receives only 30 per cent of its funding from the NHS.

So please, if you haven't already signed up to take part, do so today. You'll have a great time and, more importantly, you'll be raising cash for a local worthy cause.

COULD YOU BE A FOSTER CARER?

There is an urgent need for foster carers in London and the surrounding area

Anne Moore, Regional Manager in London and the surrounding area, said: Foster carers have a vital role to play in giving London and the surrounding areas children and young people the best possible start in life and we need to recruit a whole range of carers who reflect the diversity of the children and young people who need foster care.

You may wish to look after children for short periods of time or you may prefer to care for a young person until they reach the stage in their life when they can become independent. There is a particular need locally for people who have skills and experience to care for children aged 10+. We would be delighted to hear from individuals/families interested in offering such care or those with previous or current experience of working with young people in this age group.

Anne added, many people do not come forward to foster as they believe they are not eligible, however we are trying to encourage applications from all walks of life. You may be married, live as a couple, or be single or divorced.

You may be employed, unemployed or retired. You may be a home owner or a tenant.

We welcome applications from all ethnic backgrounds, cultures and religions.

Many prospective applicants are worried about the process however, it is important for applicants to know that support is available throughout the whole process. Free training is available before applicants begin the assessment, which is part of the process of becoming a foster carer and usually takes about 3 months to complete.

Once you become a foster carer our qualified and highly experienced staff provide ongoing support and are available 24 hours per day, therefore you are never alone. In addition further training is provided in order that foster carers gain valuable skills, knowledge and experience.

Being a foster carer is a challenging profession but if people feel they have the skills, patience and space to look after a child we urge you to come along to one of our local recruitment events and find out more, alternatively visit our website or telephone for further information.

Foster Carers Needed

Refuse row now an issue in by-election

REFUSE and recycling has become a key issue in campaigning ahead of next week's Harlow Council by-election.

Still reeling from its defeat in last month's local election, Labour is pinning its hopes of retaining Harlow Common on public opposition to the introduction of fortnightly bin rounds.

Last week the Star reported a cross-party group has recommended households be given wheeled bins instead of black bags from April 2009 and to cut the frequency of collections to encourage recycling.

Labour claims to be the only party opposing the change and admits it is prepared to see the town achieve lower recycling rates in order to do so.

It is leafletting in Harlow Common – where it hopes to retain the late Greg Peck's seat – suggesting a big turnout for Labour will send a message to the new Conservative administration.

But Tory council leader Andrew

By BEN WILKINSON
Chief Reporter

Johnson this week accused Labour of performing a U-turn for political expediency.

He claimed it was Labour and the Liberal Democrats who first considered fortnightly collections and that Labour's representative on the working group, Edna Stevens, previously supported the move.

"The Labour group are being totally disingenuous," said Mr Johnson. "This was supposed to be a cross-party approach and we've gone along with it in good faith but now suddenly, because they're in opposition, they are against it."

"Edna Stevens is saying one thing behind closed doors and the Labour group is saying something totally different to the press and in their campaign leaflets."

Labour spokesman Tony Durcan insisted his party's position had been clear for some time, adding: "We accept recycling rates have to be improved but we should educate, not regulate, to achieve this."

Trees help root community

BRANCHING OUT: Judith Rutumalessy and Stuart Guthrie plant a tree (photo: L3CVD BNH/01)

THE roots of an integrated community were laid down at a special tree-planting day to help those on the outside feel more at home.

Two Global Xchange volunteers – Stuart Guthrie (18), from Glasgow, and Judith Rutumalessy (18), from Indonesia – organised the work at the Treehouse Children's Centre, in Parnall Road, on Saturday on behalf of Integration Support Services.

ISS helps refugees and other vulnerable or isolated groups become more at one with their local communities.

Mr Guthrie said: "We planted a total of 17 trees and had plenty of other activities as well for the children to do, such as creating paths around the trees."

"It's to try and spread the message about the environment and the importance of the local environment for the community they live in, so it's really worthwhile."

Police on trail of shop flasher

THIS is the man police want to question after a flasher indecently exposed himself to a Harlow shopkeeper.

A man walked into a Cawley Hatch shop and, after a brief exchange with the 36-year-old female sales assistant, flashed at her.

The incident occurred on January 20 at about 2.30pm and details have only just been released by police in a fresh bid to identify and catch the culprit.

PC Emma Hinkins said: "This is not something you expect on a Sunday afternoon when you're working in retail. We do not want any other person, especially a youngster, confronted by this man, so it's important that we arrest him quickly."

He is described as white, in his 30s, about 1.65m (5ft 5ins) and with a distinctive dimple on his chin.

Call 0300 333 4444 with information.

Cycle town blow

HARLOW has failed in its bid to gain Cycling Town status.

The town was one of 74 in the country to bid for the specialist status which would have seen funds ploughed into further improving cycle routes and teaching residents the benefits of pedal power.

But after months of anticipation, Cycling England has left the town out of its final shortlist of 14.

The bid was made in March by Essex County Council in partnership with Harlow Council and other organisations.

A County Hall spokesman said: "We are delighted Harlow got as far as it did."

Rail deaths blame

SIR, Further to your report "Railway line claims 7th victim", all the people who died on the tracks have one thing in common – for whatever reason, they were in the wrong place at the wrong time.

My heart goes out to the friends and relatives of anyone that dies on the tracks, especially if it is a tragic accident, but I'm sorry, I can't feel much sympathy for individuals who deliberately decide to end their lives in such a manner and I don't feel that any railway company can be held responsible if someone decides to jump in front of a fast moving train.

What is the company supposed to do? Only allow people onto the station once the train has stopped? Set speed limits of 20mph on all trains? I can't see rush hour commuters putting up with that one!

I speak as the wife of a member of ticket office staff who has had to witness body parts strewn across the tracks and went back to work a couple of days later whilst still having flashbacks to the scene and having to listen to people complaining because the death made them late for work.

I can only imagine what it must be like for the drivers of the trains involved who see the person jump but can do nothing to stop the train and end up with body parts over the front of or even inside their cab. How do these drivers ever manage to get into a train again? Newspaper headlines never mention the traumatised staff left behind for whom counselling never quite rids them of the images.

Perhaps instead of putting the blame for railway suicides in the Harlow area on the rail company, Bill Rammell would be better off asking why so many people in the area are that depressed/mentally ill that they want to end their lives.

I would be the first to condemn railway companies for accidents caused by shoddy workmanship or bad rail maintenance, but please give them a break. If someone is that desperate to end their life by jumping in front of a train, they will, and nothing that the rail company can do will prevent it.

Slur on taxi drivers

SIR, With reference to the disgraceful remarks, about the Harlow licensed taxi trade attributed to Harlow Council's head of community services (Star, May 29), it is obvious she rarely or ever uses a Harlow taxi.

Positive changes to collections of refuse could be a good thing

SIR, Further to the article "Threat to weekly refuse collection" (Star, May 29), I would like to comment on the proposed changes to the refuse collections.

Having just returned from an 18-month spell living in Italy, I am in favour of the current refuse collection system being changed. In Italy, we were provided with brown bins for compostable food waste, which was collected twice weekly. We were issued with a small brown bin for inside the house and a larger brown bin for outside the house, which we left on our boundary for collections. The waste was stored in small biodegradable bags, so once they were filled the waste was never exposed to the open prior to collection.

Recyclable waste was collected weekly; however, the weekly collections alternated between paper and card collections one week and plastics the following. Recyclable waste was stored in clear plastic bags, making it possible for the collection teams to see whether any non-recyclable waste had found its way into the wrong bag (which would result in a refuse not being collected). Non-recyclable waste was collected weekly and was stored in yellow bags.

Whilst the Italian model may not suit Harlow, I do feel that the current system is not doing enough to recycle and probably not doing enough with the compostable waste that we all produce. I understand the concerns of people worried about fortnightly collections and I can appreciate the worries over the summer months with reduced collections and the warm weather. In Italy, the temperature averaged mid-30s and last summer peaked at 40 degrees. These temperatures did not present issues to the refuse collection system.

With the changing times in the political make-up of Harlow Council, maybe it's time to change the way we do certain things. I for one would be happy to accept positive changes to the waste management situation in Harlow and am hopeful that any change would make people think more about the waste they produce and what happens to it once it is collected.

Jim Roberts

Seeleys, Old Harlow

SIR, I was dismayed to read that councillors are even considering removing our weekly refuse collections.

Fortnightly collection has been widely discredited. Even with careful recycling, meat and especially fish wrappers/containers start to smell very quickly.

The sanitation and refuse collection system in this country has evolved into a weekly system for good reason; do we want to go back to rubbish filled streets cholera and rats?

My own property has a dustbin bay which is too small for a wheelie bin, and even with a weekly collection it smells in the summer.

Derek Hutchison
Westfield, Harlow

SIR, I read with apprehension the possible proposal for fortnightly bin collection. The thought of several bins left outside houses won't be pretty sight.

Moir Curry
Old Orchard, Harlow

I have spoken with many drivers and have not found one who remembers having made any earth-shaking comment that would damage the image of Harlow or the Gateway project.

From my own long experience as a taxi driver I cannot recall having engaged in conversation with any of my fares about the Gateway project or the image of Harlow which I believe is a great town. How could the words of a mere taxi driver faced daily with those splendid broad green Gibbardian avenues damage the image of Harlow?

Those who would advise the council should stick to facts and not use presumed and trite remarks. If Ms Seward and her colleagues take this advice then perhaps the council may run more smoothly than it has in the recent past.

In the meantime, we await some sort of apology from Harlow Council!

Dressing down

SIR, My wife returned home after four months, having had a very serious stroke and a week later she was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital with an infection.

She was fully dressed on entry to hospital. Two weeks later she was discharged, sent home without a phone call and only for me to discover that she was wearing a hospital nightdress and two sheets.

I immediately phoned the ward and was told she had got no clothes to wear. Only two days earlier, myself and a ward sister had checked that she had got clothes to wear and everything was in order.

I had quite a long (and heated) discussion with the junior nurse who had got my wife ready for discharge. She then passed me over to the ward sister, who told me that they were far too busy to look for missing clothes.

Having not received the clothes or a phone call I then contacted my wife's social worker to investigate and she was told that the hospital, ie, Lister Ward, could not be held responsible for clothing belonging to patients.

Two days after, I contacted Patient Advice and Liaison Service at PAH, requesting them to sort the problem out.

Eventually, 10 days after my wife's release, the ward clerk telephoned to say that the clothes my wife had left behind had been found. They were subsequently returned without any word of apology or anything.

As far as I am concerned, the clothes should have been, and probably were, in the same wardrobe as when she arrived.

PAH cashing in on parking

By BEN WILKINSON
Chief Reporter
wilkinsonb@hertssexnews.co.uk

PRINCESS Alexandra Hospital collects more than £60,000 a month in parking charges, half of which is siphoned off by a private firm.

The PAH NHS Trust revealed its parking profits after the BBC disclosed the sums made by UK hospitals.

Although the BBC found PAH raked in £318,164 in the 2004-05 financial year – the most recent period for which figures are available – the Trust admitted this week that the amount has more than doubled since.

Parking fees are £2 for up to three hours, £3 for up to six hours and £5 for over six. Some UK hospitals make more than £1m.

The extent to which parking is used as an income stream by hospitals has attracted criticism from several patient groups, as well as the Taxpayers' Alliance pressure group.

Harlow Pensioners' Action Association chairman Les Coben this week backed calls for change, stating: "I think most people who have used the hospital recently will agree that the cost of parking is exorbitant. For older people who might have to visit the hospital regularly, these punishing parking fees are a big deal."

However, a trust spokesman defended the charges, saying about half the income goes to private firm Excell Parking Services, which manages the car parks and security, and the balance goes to investment in patient services.

Chance to help out

VOLUNTEERING was the talk of the town when details of the many opportunities available in Harlow went on show in the Central Library.

Harlow Volunteer Centre ran the stand on Tuesday as part of National Volunteers Week.

Post service one of the UK's worst

NEXT-day postal delivery in Harlow is among the worst in the country.

Royal Mail delivered just 80 per cent of First Class post for the CM postcode area on time last year – way below the national average of 93 per cent.

Watchdog Postwatch released the figures this week and has vowed to meet Royal Mail chiefs to discuss what can be done to improve the service.

A Royal Mail spokeswoman blamed industrial action for the poor performance but added work is under way to get the service back on track.

Learning with Lego is so constructive

POTTER STREET PRIMARY: Building blocks for the future were put in place when pupils enjoyed a constructive week.

The children, who were taking part in a week-long project on buildings and structures, were given the opportunity to design their own using Lego.

They created bridges and castles as well as modern homes and even a Lego menagerie to rival anything at the Legolands in Windsor and Denmark.

A school spokeswoman said: "Lego really helps children get to grips with how buildings are designed and made which in turn gives them a better understanding of the world around them."

A Smart way of keeping school equipment safe

SCHOOLS in Harlow are set to take advantage of an ingenious invention to deter thieves.

Harlow police, in association with the Safer Harlow Partnership and the Harlow Education Consortium, have obtained funding to provide every school in the town with its own forensically-based property marking system called Smartwater.

Smartwater is a colourless solution used to mark valuables and which can only be read by specialist equipment.

Each school will receive a pack that has its own forensic code registered to the school. The solution is easy to apply, virtually impossible to remove and only detectable under ultraviolet light. More importantly, it is a proven deterrent to thieves.

Harlow neighbourhood policing inspector Bob Adams said: "The aim of Smartwater is to deter and detect those who steal from our schools."

"Once all the school equipment is marked it will definitely help deter thieves as it makes it harder for the thief to sell the property on and most second-hand shops use an ultra-violet lamp to check for such markings."

Celebration of culture

HARLOW COLLEGE: A map of the world showing the birthplaces of students was one part of the college's cultural diversity week.

Floristry, food and music from around the globe were also included in the week of events celebrating the range of nationalities and cultures represented by students and staff.

Lunchtime events were held to bring together the colours of the college which it was hoped would help to promote the sentiment of inclusiveness.

A college spokesman said: "The key idea behind the week was to show that while accepting people's differences, the college is committed to offering them equal respect and opportunity."

'Magnificent seven' up for awards

BURNT MILL: Seven members of staff have received nominations in the National Teaching Awards.

The school as a whole is also up for an award. The nomination reads: "They are an excellent school . . . all the teachers are so kind, all the pupils are polite and kind and caring towards their peers and this reflects how good the school is."

ANYONE kicking themselves for missing out on the carnival atmosphere of last month's Harlow's Race For Life needn't worry – there is now another chance to have fun and raise money for Cancer Research UK.

While the organisers of the 5km run in Town Park collect the estimated £157,000 raised from the event, preparations are under way for a Relay For Life fundraiser which takes place at The Leventhorpe School in Sawbridgeworth on August 2 and 3.

Focusing on teamwork rather than individual performance, it gives people who have been touched by cancer the chance to celebrate the lives of loved ones.

Over the course of 24 hours, teams of between eight and 15 members take turns to walk or jog around the track. It begins with a lap of honour by cancer survivors after which the teams take over.

The highlight is a Candle of Hope ceremony when everyone present can dedicate a candle to someone who has lost their battle with cancer. As the night draws in, the candles will be placed around the track in a poignant tribute.

Organiser Lorraine Gunn said: "The whole community is invited to come along on the day to show their support, participate in the ceremonies and celebrate what takes place.

"You can help out as a volunteer or assist in offering products or services towards the success of the event, or you can arrange a fundraising stall or event for the day or beforehand."

Anyone wanting to get involved should call (01279) 657719.

Five take a dive for charity

STAFF from a Harlow-based estate agents turned daredevils for a day when they took the plunge in a tandem skydive.

The five-strong team of Juliette Rainbird, Paul Andreotti, Harriett Kent-Pope, Lee Surtees and Tracey Brennan from Guardian Residential Lettings and Sales, in Post Office Walk, raised a massive £3,148.62 for St Clare Hospice at Hastingwood and St Frances Hospice in Romford centre by jumping out of a plane at 13,000ft. Juliette said: "We would like to say a big thank you to family and friends who attended to give their support as well as the many kind people who sponsored us and helped to support such a worthy cause."

Views sought on village life

THE residents of North Weald came together for a special family event at the village community centre.

Various local service providers were on hand to show off what's on offer in the local area.

There was also country dancing by pupils from St Andrew's Primary School, a children's puppet show and a chance to try out cheerleading.

Visitors also got the opportunity to pass on their views and ideas to Epping Forest Council via a consultation board.

Sea cadets on crest of wave

IT was a time for ceremony and celebration when Harlow Sea Cadet Corps handed out its annual awards.

Councillors Joshua and Muriel Jolles were guests of honour at the evening during which they presented 19 trophies.

Ryan McGlone was named the best male sea cadet and Eleanor Bourne the best female. The best marine cadet prize went to George Hellard, best new cadet to Jake Butler and best junior cadet to Sam Chan.

Other winners included David Bacon for piping and shooting, Ashley Plowes for sport and uniform standards, George Hellard for adventure training, Ryan McGlone for sailing, Eleanor Bourne for canoeing, Robert Edwards for pulling and uniform standards, Megan Chan for uniform standards, Mick Watson for attendance on parade nights and Billy Kent for determination in adversity.

School farewell

BRAYS Grove School holds a final farewell event on June 21 to give former pupils the chance to catch up with ex-classmates, reminisce with teachers and see their old classrooms.

Teacher Liz Bannister said: "This will be the final opportunity for people to visit the school site before it closes its doors for the last time."

Tickets for the occasion, which also includes a buffet and refreshments, cost £10. Call (01279) 866101 or visit www.braysgrove.essex.sch.uk

Caring for Kevin

THE family of Kevin Chapple, the man who was left with serious brain damage in an arson attack back in 2005, are holding a fundraising evening at Harlow Rugby Club this weekend.

Kevin (30), whose girlfriend Kerry Youngs lost her life in the blaze, remains in care. The money raised will go towards treatments such as acupuncture and speech therapy to aid his recovery.

Tickets for Saturday's fundraiser, which includes a disco and raffle, are £6. Call Valerie Rees on 07951 061863.

Take a breather

A NEW drop-in service for people with respiratory problems held its inaugural session at the Purford Green Community Centre in Harlow.

It was organised by the British Lung Foundation's local Breathe Easy group, which is planning more sessions on July 15 and September 19 from 2-4pm.

For more information call (01992) 578694 or 573387.

Reunion dates

TWO veterans associations are seeking ex-servicemen from the Harlow and Epping area to take part in forthcoming reunions.

The RAF Police Association is looking for former members of all ranks to get in touch on (01202) 747176.

Meanwhile those who served with the Royal Berkshire Regiment are asked to contact (01452) 728823.

The debt worries

A LOCAL company can help any home owners who have the threat of bailiffs or repossession hanging over them.

Housebought4cash.com will buy your property in 7 days or less allowing you to avoid repossession, repay your mortgage and clear any arrears. Acting early could leave you with cash and a clear credit record, allowing you to carry on living as normal without the stress.

For property owners in serious mortgage arrears or facing repossession, estate agents have a limited choice of options to offer those that need to move quickly.

Housebought4cash.com can help - give them a call on 0871 288 4740 today. They will give you a fair offer for your property in as little as 48 hours.

A smart move!...

YOU may have found yourself in the difficult situation of needing to urgently sell your house, for whatever reason, be it for financial reasons like repossession or bankruptcy, separating or divorce, or just needing to free up the equity in your property. However, you will still need somewhere to live after the sale completes.

Housebought4cash.com will guarantee a quick cash offer for your property whatever your circumstances. It is possible to sell your home and rent it back from them at a fair price - you could even have the money within 7 working days and not have to find somewhere else to live. Their discreet service means that even your neighbours will not know that you have sold your home.

This can free up capital that is locked in your home - it may also reduce your outgoings, if your rent is less than your mortgage payments. It also means that your house cannot be repossessed and if you have been threatened with a bankruptcy order, you may be in a position to pay of your creditors, giving you a fresh start.

So why not give housebought4cash.com a call on 0871 288 4740. It might just be the best move you will ever make.

Sell your property and rent it back

THERE are many reasons why people choose to sell their homes or property. You may even want to sell your property and continue to live in it by renting it back.

If you need to sell your home quickly you should speak to housebought4cash.com. They act discreetly and no sale board will appear outside of your home. Respect for individual circumstances is absolutely important when dealing with sensitive financial matters.

You can visit their website at www.housebought4cash.com and get a guaranteed offer within 48 hours. Use your mouse to sell your house!

CASH CRISIS?

Local company offers homeowners fast solution

Whatever your circumstances you can get help with housebought4cash.com

MANY home owners could cash in on the value of their homes if they get the best free advice from a local reputable company. It is a fact that many people choose to sell their homes and rent back their property, enabling them to receive a cash lump sum and free them from their debt repayments.

There are many reasons that people choose to cash in the value of their homes and one local company will consider any type of property that you wish to sell. Housebought4cash.com have already helped many local homeowners transform their debt problems quickly and discreetly. Some of the most common reasons that people need to sell quickly are redundancy, divorce or separation, repossession proceedings, illness, a new house purchase or emigration. No circumstances are ever identical and all situations are considered. Remember, a fast cash offer will be made to the homeowner for the property you want or need to sell.

Mr M of Cheshunt needed help to sell his home. "I purchased a property for development and was in the middle of refurbishing it when my relationship broke down."

Relief

"At the time when the house looked a total mess, I have to say I thought it impossible to sell it on the open market. I then noticed an advertisement in a local free paper and within 48 hours had agreed to sell my property. What a relief!"

Another advantage of using housebought4cash.com is that they act quickly. The threat of repossession can often put enormous pressure on families.

The simplest way to avoid repossession is to sell your home.

A quick property sale can avoid the uncertainties of the housing market which could put your home at risk.

Equity can be raised quickly through a fast property sale, so you can clear outstanding debts, reach a quick financial settlement and move on in your personal life. You may be in the middle of a stressful divorce or separation and the pressure can be quite daunting. Housebought4cash.com will help you find the best solution whether you want to move away and make a fresh start, or stay in your home and keep your family settled.

More and more people want to release equity in their homes whilst wishing to continue living in the property.

Housebought4cash.com will buy your house and you can remain in your home as a tenant for as long as you require. This can solve your financial or accommodation problems, simply and easily.

Whether you have found your dream home and need to sell quickly, are relocating, moving abroad, need access to the cash locked in your property or simply don't want to worry about the wait on the open market, housebought4cash.com can help with your situation. The company will listen to all circumstances and will act discreetly at all times - no nosy neighbours need ever know and no 'for sale' sign will ever go up outside of your property.

You can make a smart move today by visiting their website at www.housebought4cash.com or call them on 0871 288 4740 for free advice on a stress-free future.

Remember, they can make an offer in less than 48 hours and complete in as little as 5 days.

A cash offer will be made in 48 hours for your property

What happened to the wonders of Woolies?

MANY memories of the old Woolworth store in Broad Walk, Harlow, were shared earlier this year. Now, thanks to reader Linda Darrell, we can show you the staff who manned the fort. This picture was taken in 1984, about six months before the large, three-storey shop, opposite Marks and Spencer, closed down.

Mrs Darrell, who was known as Miss White and then Mrs Barnett during her Woolworth days, worked there for more than 10 years, ending up as a section supervisor.

She is hoping to organise a reunion of former employees this August and would like to hear from anyone pictured here and anyone else who worked at the shop in the 1970s or 1980s. Call her on 07963 437918.

Fifty years of worship

THE David Livingstone United Reformed Church in Maddox Road, Harlow, has just celebrated 50 years of worship at the site.

One of many non-conformist Christian groups in the town, it takes its name from the Scottish missionary, explorer and anti-slavery crusader and can trace its history back to December 1954 when a letter appeared in the local newspaper.

Written by E.D. Miller, it expressed an interest in starting a church for this part of the new town.

It was from this starting point that Mr Miller and his wife recruited Mr and Mrs E.J. Quinn and Mr H Dunn. The five founding members organised their first service in The Dashes Common Room in March 1955 and seven months later the church's first minister, Rev Geoff Satchell, was inducted.

By 1958 the church had grown

significantly, boasting 50 members and - aptly for the 'Pram Town' - up to 100 children. When the church building was constructed, original plans for a manse on the site had to be scrapped and the minister was instead accommodated in a house provided by Harlow Development Corporation.

The next 50 years proved turbulent at times as the number of worshippers fluctuated. Vandalism was also a problem and by the 1990s the building was severely dilapidated, threatening the future of the church.

Member Derrick Hills explained:

"The minister of the day, John Wheaton, and the elders entered into negotiation with the Methodist Housing Association to take over the land, build flats to let and provide a new smaller church on the site.

"After extremely long and complex negotiations the scheme got the go-ahead and while the building was being carried out the members spent a very happy time sharing worship with Trinity URC in Hare Street.

"The patient, faithful congregation eventually moved into the present building in 2002."

● ANOTHER Harlow church, the Redeemer Lutheran Church in Bush Fair, is looking to record its history in the town which also dates back to 1955. Any Star readers who have photographs or memories of those early days should contact us and we will pass everything on.

David delivered town telegrams

SAY hello to Harlow telegram boy David SKnight, pictured in his smart Royal Mail uniform around 1940.

Mr Knight, now aged 82 and living in The Hoo, is about 14-years-old in this photograph. "I was based at the Post Office which is still there in Old Harlow, but twice a week I had to cover for the sub-offices as well," he said.

"I did the job for four years before I had to join the forces. It was very enjoyable work, but the weather wasn't always kind to me!"

Nostalgia updates . . .

A SLIGHT clarification to last week's memories of former reporter Bridget McAlpine about Harlow Council back in the 1960s. Council press officer at the time Derek Hawes writes: "It is true no journalists were allowed into committee meetings but when I arrived in 1964 one of the first things I recommended was that this should be changed.

"It was, of course, opposed by many councillors and most chief officers. However, after a fierce debate in private in the Labour group, the change was made and committees became open."

Mr Hawes added: "The government regulation to which Bridget refers came later so Harlow was, for some years, one of the only councils in Britain with open committees."

A QUICK post script to our recent piece about Canons Brook Golf Club. The Museum of Harlow, in Muskham Road, possesses the original plans by Sir Henry Cotton as well as lots of old photographs of the course and clubhouse, all of which are available to see on request.

25 YEARS AGO June 2, 1983

HARLOW may be watching over its closest-run election battle ever as voters go to the polls today. The question of who will be our next MP deepened this week when the Alliance claimed they had overtaken Labour.

AS the national media tried to find the identity of the British MP lover of actress Shirley Maclaine, the spotlight fell on Harlow's Stan Newens. Press articles have said the lover drank whisky and soda, had part of his left little finger missing, was tall with a mop of dark hair, shared "exotic hideaways" with Miss Maclaine and was a former cabinet minister. But Mr Newens, who has never been in the cabinet, insisted: "I never touch beer or spirits".

A SCOUT group is throwing caution to the wind by setting a two-year deadline for completion of its new headquarters. The 16th Harlow Scouts have been struggling to build on a piece of land at Maunds Hatch for some time.

SHUTTLE fever gripped Harlow on Sunday as hundreds of people went to Stansted Airport to see the spacecraft Enterprise riding piggy-back on a specially adapted Boeing 747.

New appeal to solve mystery of motorway death

POLICE have issued a fresh appeal for information into the death last year of a Slovakian man found seriously injured on the M11 at Harlow in the early hours of the morning.

An inquest into the death of Michal Droppa (25) is due to resume next week exactly one year on from the incident.

Mr Droppa, who had been living in Brighton for 18 months, was found lying seriously injured in the inside lane. It is believed he was struck by a vehicle which did not stop.

Mr Droppa was taken to Queen's

Hospital in Romford but died a week later.

Investigating officer Sergeant Dave Jones said: "We owe it to Michal's family to discover what he was doing walking on the M11 and what happened in the moments leading up to the fatal collision."

Plans to move park zoo axed

PROTEST: Residents staged a demonstration against plans to move Pets Corner

CONTROVERSIAL proposals to relocate Pets' Corner from its current site in Harlow Town Park have been scrapped following public outcry.

Harlow Council has been forced into a U-turn over plans to move the popular children's attraction to a new location next to Altham Grove.

A new set of proposals currently on display in the Civic Centre show Pets' Corner remaining in its current location while outlining significant cosmetic improvements and extended facilities - including a new picnic area, a cafe and an improved education centre.

Also included on the redraft is an artist's impression of how the derelict bandstand will look once renovated, while the disused walled nursery area will be brought back into use as a horticultural display garden.

By CHRIS MOSS
mossc@hertsexnews.co.uk

A council spokesman admitted the main reason for the change of plans had been the strength of public opinion expressed against the original draft.

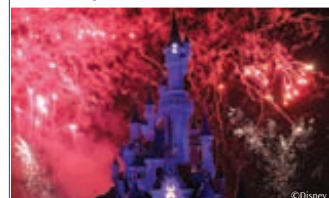

"The proposals include moving Pets' Corner slightly to improve the setting of Spurriers, rather than relocate the facility on the other side of the park which the public and particularly Altham Grove residents were not in favour of," he said.

"The proposals are part of a wider plan to improve the park which has already provided a new skate park and play area. We welcome local people to view the local plans and tell us what they think."

The plans will be on display at the Civic Centre until Monday evening when council representatives will make a detailed presentation of the proposals between 7pm and 9pm.

Searching for life on Mars

A SPACECRAFT is beaming back images of Mars after landing on the surface of the red planet.

Phoenix was sent to Mars to try to discover if the atmosphere there could support life forms.

It took more than nine months to arrive at its destination, travelling a total of 422,000,000 miles. The landing comes four years after robots were blasted on to the planet's surface to explore its many rock formations.

Despite previous explorations being carried out on Mars, Phoenix is the first spacecraft to be deployed to the planet's ice poles to see if they contain any molecules which could support life. It will do this by deploying an 8ft arm to burrow into a layer of ice before heating it up and examining it.

Scientists think the expanse of ice was once a vast lake which was there when the planet's atmosphere was more like that of Earth's.

During the three-month trip, soil and rocks will also undergo analysis as Phoenix looks for any signs that there was – or still is – life on the four-billion-year-old planet.

Your stars with Patrick Arundell

...through the week ahead

Aries Mar 21-Apr 20

Astrology is about timing. Human relations are as much about our mode of self-expression as what we actually say. Join these principles together now, for this is a rare time, one that's excellent to discuss important issues. This is because you can express yourself so smoothly. Others can also be highly receptive. A new relationship can be very sweet. Call me now for your love scope in full.

Taurus Apr 21-May 21

Your self-discipline can be low this week, but that may be no bad thing. For if you've been furiously fasting, juicing or detoxing, you may be in the mood for a pause, one where you can indulge yourself a little. After all, being beach-trim but feeling grim is not a great mix. Financially, good fortune is possible and may be linked to the family or property. Call me now for your financial forecast.

Gemini May 22-Jun 21

Few times will be as good for you as this Gemini. People can hang on your every word instead of just some of them - and adverbs will queue to offer their salutations. Why so? You're set to exude a special warmth, one that, whatever your circumstances and challenges, can draw magic your way. Smiles can feature more than frowns and furrowed brows. Call me now for your in-depth forecast.

Cancer Jun 22-Jul 23

Have you been denying your feelings around one person? There could be more tenderness here than you realise. If you continue to keep this situation in the deep freeze, Cancer it will be you, as much as they, that loses out. Whatever the state of your closest relationships, go forth with a gentle heart. Even a separation should be handled with kindness. Call me now for your love scope in full.

Leo Jul 24-Aug 23

Even if there is the odd hiccup around arrangements, any fallout is unlikely to last long. You can appreciate friends more now than ever. In love, if you're also one another's best buddy, this can be something you both positively feed off and derive satisfaction from. A day trip to a concert or event can benefit from your leadership skills, which can thrive. Call me now for more news and advice.

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23

The last half of May has had the potential for you to be at odds with big organisations, corporate life, or bodies. A frascious energy may have also affected ties with an everyday senior figure. Now, as long as you choose your words carefully, a more positive and constructive atmosphere can unfold - one that's conducive to building mutual respect. Call your prediction line for more astral advice.

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23

The summertime really is here Libra and all we have to do now is wait to find out whether those weather forecasters are in the same league for accuracy, as this astro forecaster is - when it comes to discussing the Sun! Seriously, for you this can be a sunny week even if the weather is glum. Romance and sociability can shine brightly in your world. Call now for your love scope in full.

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22

If you're smitten, you're likely to be hugely so. In fact, if you've recently met someone or meet a slinky person this week, you could fall head over heels. If so, you're likely to want to tell all and sundry about it. And because you can be an all-or-nothing person, this experience can be very intense. Your prospects around wealth can also be transformed. Call for your in-depth forecast.

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21

Something quite special can occur around your inter-relationships. People can seem more forgiving and there is a gentler edge. Even mix-ups can be cleared up. You can talk of an exciting backpacking trip with one special pal or want to get away with your significant other. If you're on vacation, a flirtatious moment may hold more promise than you might expect. Call for your love scope in full.

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20

You have those daily chores to attend to or there is the regularity of routine at work. And yet you can gain a lot by having fun as you clear these out of the way. You may even socialise with people you see every day, other mums or co-workers. One of your great qualities is that as you get older, your sense of humour blossoms. Use it wholesomely Capricorn. Call now for more news and advice.

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19

Once you give yourself permission, you can be sociable and this week there's going to be loads of opportunities to enjoy the parties and gatherings you get invited to. Solo? Assuming yourself that this is fine may see you maintain your pride, but nibbling just beneath the surface can be a more gregarious, loving spirit, one that's keen to come out and play. Call now for your in-depth forecast.

Pisces Feb 20-Mar 20

Laying-on a lavish feast for friends and family can come easily to you, when you can be the host with the most. You can also appreciate the emotional sustenance in your world. Links with family members can buoy you and someone close can also be willing to help you with the more practical elements of a redecoration or home improvement project. Call your prediction line for more.

TREADING IN A MORAL MINEFIELD

Casey Affleck is a PI hunting a missing girl

Sculpture-inspired art brightens empty unit

EMPTY shop units in Harlow's Harvey Centre and West Gate Square may be an all-too-common sight, but work to brighten up their windows is well underway.

As part of the town's Window Works scheme, Harlow's rich artistic heritage has been explored by Harlow College diploma students.

The pieces inspired by the town's sculpture collection will now adorn the Harvey Centre shop window of former gentlemen's outfitter Glanvilles, on the first floor, which ceased trading in December.

The scheme was jointly set up by Harlow Council and Harlow Renaissance with the aim of making the town centre a more "colourful and exciting" place to work and visit.

A college spokesman said: "These posters will create a lovely display, not just for the evident artistic colour and design skills but for the humour that comes through with the eye-catching captions."

"I think they will not only bring pleasure and highlight Harlow's heritage with our local residents but also promote Harlow in a positive light to those further afield who may then be attracted to come and see our town and its collection of sculptures."

DANCE There's no place like The Playhouse to see Innovations Dance Company's take on The Wizard of Oz on Sunday. The curtain rises at 6.30pm and tickets are £10 from (01279) 431945.

DRAMA It sounds like the storyline of pretty much any soap opera, but when an explosion rips apart a pub, a group of friends are forced to deal with their situation in Dennis Kelly's After The End. The production is directed for Phoenix Theatre Arts by former Playhouse Theatre School student Paul Smith and starts at 7.45pm next Thursday and Friday. Tickets are £8 (£6 concs) from (01279) 431945.

MUSIC Harlow Accordion Club has announced its next guest performance. Alan Young and Russia's Alexander Korbakov will be appearing at the Links Social Club, in Parsloe Road, on June 19 at 7.30pm. Tickets are £6 in advance from (01279) 432830, or £7 on the door.

ART A free open exhibition of 50 handpicked local artworks is currently at Harlow's Gibberd Gallery, in the Civic Centre, until June 28. Sculpture, prints, paintings and drawings can all be viewed at the gallery Monday to Friday from 9am-5pm and Saturdays from 9am-noon.

AUDITIONS To celebrate its 30th anniversary, Harlow Theatre Company is looking for its own glorious summer by a certain son of York. Shakespeare's propagandist history Richard III is being produced for The Victoria Hall Theatre and open auditions for all roles are being held on July 6. Hopefuls should bring a prepared Shakespeare piece to the hall at 10am.

Alfred recalls a war on the run as an escapee

By JIM TANFIELD

NERVE-jangling true stories of a Harlow resident's escape from Italian prisoner of war camps have been published.

It was in the darkest days of the Second World War when a young soldier called Alfred Nisbett, now 88 and living in The Hoo, was sent from one Italian POW camp to the next. He escaped but was still behind German lines in central Italy when the Marchetti family took in Alfred and his friend and spent the next 10 months helping the pair get back behind Allied lines and to relative safety.

The Athena-published autobiography is titled Always Tomorrow: Sempre Domani and Mr Nisbett's time with the Marchetti family is fully chronicled.

"They fed us, clothed us and hid us before we eventually got back and I am friends with them to this day," said Alfred. "I have been back to visit them on several occasions and they have been to see me here."

The book also explains in detail how he made his incredible journey back into Allied territory.

"From the Marchetti's home in L'Aquila we naturally headed south," he said. "One afternoon, we were in the mountains and we saw a jeep coming towards us and we obviously assumed it was Germans or Italians, but then we noticed they were wearing tin hats and realised they were British. The driver congratulated us on our escape. "Our parents even received a letter saying we had escaped - I have still got mine."

The story, which takes place between 1943-44, is available in bookshops and online for £5.95.

Hunt for girl leads into city's grim underbelly

GONE BABY GONE

certificate 15, running time 1h 54m

BEN Affleck in a good film? Well, not exactly, as the veteran of such classic Razzie-baiting fare as Pearl Harbour and Gigli has sensibly opted to remain behind the camera for his directorial debut.

And perhaps a bigger surprise is that the film is not just good, it's very good – a complex, brooding neo-noir thriller adapted from the exceptional novel by Dennis Lehane which effortlessly outperforms all expectations.

But Ben isn't the only Affleck who deserves credit, with younger (and, in the acting department, notably more talented) brother Casey taking the lead role following a triumphant supporting part in last year's The Assassination Of Jesse James By The Coward Robert Ford.

He plays tough private eye Patrick Kenzie, raised on the wrong side of the tracks in a Boston slum and more than willing to bend the rules a little for his clients.

Working alongside his partner and girlfriend Angie Gennaro (Michelle Monaghan), Kenzie spends most of his time tracking missing down-and-outs with unpaid debts, so when the pair are offered the chance to find little girl lost Amanda McCready (Madeline O'Brien), they initially refuse.

But when the missing four-year-old's desperate aunt Beatrice (Amy Madigan) pleads with them to take the case because of their inside-out knowledge of the neighbourhood, Kenzie and Gennaro reluctantly agree and enter the town's murky underbelly of violent drug gangs, warped paedophile rings and intimidating loan sharks.

Given hush-hush police support by Ed Harris' intense Detective Remy Bressant – who lost his own daughter in similar circumstances years before – the private eyes soon uncover a complicated web of false leads, dead ends and inconceivable truths, racking up the tension for the final act where a moral dilemma threatens to destroy their relationship, their sanity and even their lives.

Spandex spoof of superheroes

certificate 15, running time 1h 26m

THE world's most smugly irritating film franchise returns with another 'hilarious' send-up of a movie genre and this time it's the superheroes who are getting spoofed.

Essentially following the plot of Spider-Man line-by-line, high school loser Rick Riker (Sam Cohen/Drake Bell) gets bitten by a genetically mutated dragonfly and develops superhuman powers such as incredible strength and really tough skin.

Deciding to use his new powers to fight crime, the despicable Lex Luther-esque villain Lou Landers stands in his way, developing a convoluted process for stealing another person's life force and using it against them.

Completely bereft of wit, intelligence and anything resembling a valid reason for its existence – but since when this that stop Scary Movie and its predictably dire sequels?

Remake looks like a bad date

certificate 15, running time 1h 27m

THE latest turgid teen slasher rolls off the tired Hollywood production line of remakes for no apparent reason whatsoever to follow the inevitably gruesome plight of a bunch of impossibly pretty high school airheads.

Donna (Brittany Snow), is understandably still haunted by the unprovoked massacre of her entire family by a creepy teacher just three years previously – a crime which saw said professor locked up in a mental asylum – and is a bit reticent about going to the prom at all, but foolishly chooses to join her mates.

But what's this? The killer has escaped? From the asylum? On the night of the prom? What an unfortunate coincidence – as is the film's teen-friendly rating which means that even hardcore slasher fans will be disappointed at the paltry amount of ketchup spilt.

sound check with Chris Moss

EVER since the Windrush brought the exotic sounds of calypso to post-war London, awkward white boys with guitars – from The Clash to The Dead 60s via The Specials – have been fascinated by the music of the Caribbean.

All too easy to get horribly wrong (listen to the cod-reggae whimpers of Hard-Fi for proof), it's a much-maligned and grossly misunderstood sub-genre which four youngsters from Harlow have somehow managed to crack with such unnerving composure and panache that it's like 1977 all over again.

With echoes of pioneering dub-punks Alternative TV and John Lydon's sneering alter-ego with PIL, this is thrilling, raw and visceral stuff; all spaced-out, dub punk blowouts with enough delay to fill an aircraft hangar and sufficient grooves to sell out a stadium.

The cut-throat world of the record industry surely beckons for this fresh-faced lot – let's just hope they're not forced to dance to the A&R man's tune anytime soon.

CD reviews by Ben Wilkinson

THE ESSENTIAL PAUL SIMON

Paul Simon (album/DVD, Warner Bros)

Whether you get excited by his music or not, Simon's four decades in the music industry – initially as one half of Simon and Garfunkel and then as a successful solo artist – easily qualifies him for legend status. The CD part of this 40th anniversary compilation features everything from first album highlight Mother and Child Reunion through to the '80s You Can Call Me Al to more tracks from his latest album released last year. The DVD includes music videos, live performances and TV appearances which offers fans something new.

WANDERLUST

Gavin Rossdale (album, Interscope)

Former Bush frontman and Mr Gwen Stefani delivers an album of easily-digestible anthemic rock with a certain amount of variety for a one-trick vocalist. Peppered with crowd-pleasing key changes and wide-arching pianissimo/crescendo/diminuendo moments for the lighters-in-the-air brigade, this is a really interesting effort, with only a few flourishes of self-obsessed morbidity.

SEX AND THE CITY: THE MOVIE. The fabulous foursome hit the big time after a four-year break from our TV screens, and spend two-and-a-half hours shopping, talking about sex and drinking expensive cocktails to make up for it.

INDIANA JONES AND THE KINGDOM OF THE CRYSTAL SKULL. The man in the hat is back for another whip-snapping, wise-cracking adventure as he takes on the Russians at the height of the Cold War in a race to retrieve an ancient artefact said to have supernatural powers.

IRON MAN. Billionaire weapons dealer Tony Stark (the mercurial Robert Downey Jr) decides to jack it all in and become a superhero in this superior comic book adaptation from Jon Favreau.

SHREK THE THIRD. When his new father-in-law falls ill, the jolly green ogre is seen as the heir to the land of Far, Far Away but doesn't want to give up his beloved swamp, recruiting friends Donkey and Puss in Boots to install the rebellious Artie as the new king.

Stoned bikers ride into awareness

FREEBIRD

(Anchor Bay Entertainment, 15, retail & rental)

A British Easy Rider played for amiable laughs, this enjoyable road movie sends three bikers off into the wilds of Wales on a mission to score a significant wedge of a new strain of cannabis from a mysterious hippy dealer.

Fred (Gary Stretch) is finding himself torn between his feckless outlaw lifestyle and the pull of responsibility towards his ex and their young daughter, Tyg (Geoff Bell) is just up for a lark but dreams of heading off into the USA's wild blue yonder and Grouch (Phil Daniels) is so perpetually off his face on a cocktail of recreational highs that he barely knows what planet he's on.

Just getting there appears to be challenge enough for the trio, but matters get seriously out of hand when they inadvertently find themselves caught up in a blood feud between local bikers and a group from Wessex, shortly before they embark on the mother of all magic mushroom trips in the very woods which may just be home to a panther.

Writer/director John Ivey has modest ambitions, and in place of improbably sharp one-liners is happy to deliver a running stream of knockabout humour and chuckles as the three friends stumble from one dazed state to another and slowly arrive at personal enlightenment.

He likes his movies too, and beyond the obvious comparisons to Easy Rider and Withnail & I, he variously references An American Werewolf In London, Zulu and Sergio Leone's spaghetti westerns, among others, and it's all topped off with a generally excellent soundtrack (although it could have done with playing up the rock elements over the more traditional orchestral music).

RADIO ON

(BFI, 18, retail)

It's always interesting (perhaps because it so rarely happens) to watch critics putting their necks on the line by trying their hand at the very craft they spend so much time analysing and judging in others.

Chris Petit was a film reviewer with Time Out when he made this fascinating 1979 road movie, and he was lucky enough to secure the support of cult director Wim Wenders and even had loan of the latter's regular cameraman Martin Schäfer to capture the bleak monochrome chill of a country slipping into the grasping clutches of the dead hand of Thatcherism.

David Beames plays young London DJ Robert, who sets off on the road to Bristol to look into the apparent suicide of his brother.

As with the best movies of this genre, the journey's the thing and Robert's odyssey takes him through an almost phantasmagorical landscape of creeping urbanisation, decaying factories and assorted lost souls caught in the hinterland between the slow death of political idealism and the harsh monetary mechanics of the new era.

On his travels, he encounters an unsettling soldier who's deserting rather than face another tour of duty in Northern Ireland, a garage mechanic (a very early appearance by Sting) who dreams of being Eddie Cochran and a young German woman searching for her missing daughter. In each case, Robert's exchanges with them feel difficult and stilted, as if neither disenchanted party can find the language to properly communicate.

But into this void of words, Petit pours music; Radio On has a superb new wave soundtrack to give an idea of what's going on inside the heart and mind of its central character. Included are David Bowie's German language version of Heroes, Robert Fripp, Ian Dury, Devo, The Rumour, Wreckless Eric and Lene Lovich, but towering tonally over them all is Kraftwerk, whose cold alienated electro is the perfect accompaniment to this haunting snapshot in time.

Star rating: ★★★★★

LAUREL & HARDY: THE COLLECTION

(Universal Pictures UK, PG, retail)

These four excellent themed collections showcase some of the best moments of cinema's finest-ever comedy double act.

In The Army features Marine Adventures, Ollie And Matrimony, Blockheads and Pack Up Your Troubles; Family Feuds features their magnificent classic Sons Of The Desert, Our Relations, Married Life and Someone's Ailing; Crime And Punishment has their first talkie, Pardon Us, as well as Blackmail, Laurel And Hardy And The Law and More Brushes With The Law; finally, All The Wrong Notes collects some of their more notable musical moments in Way Out West, Saps At Sea, Swiss

Miss and The Bohemian Girl.

The format of mixing up features with shorts works very well, although purists will see little point in adding coloured versions of some short films but that's a small gripe when faced with such a wealth of timeless hilarity. Fine messes never looked so fine.

Star rating: ★★★★★

THE GOOD NIGHT

(Momentum Pictures, 15, retail)

Fantasy butts heads with reality to uneven effect in this debut from Jake Paltrow, brother of actress Gwyneth.

Martin Freeman is Gary, a former musician who's seen better days and, when not composing trite ad jingles, spends most of his time escaping his caricature bitchy girlfriend Dora (Paltrow) and annoyingly successful ex-bandmate (a delightfully smarmy turn from Simon Pegg) by diving headlong into sleep to dream of his perfect seductive woman, Anna (Penelope Cruz).

But when he encounters Anna in real life, in the guise of fatuous model Melanie, he finds she's a long way from what he'd hoped – and then Dora begins to crop up in his nocturnal fantasies.

It's a good-looking film with likeable leads but unfortunately they play characters who are anything but, and the film lacks narrative momentum or much in the way of laugh-out-loud humour.

Star rating: ★★

VEROCIFERO

Ladytron (album, Nettwerk)

Once upon a time, Ladytron seemed like a tantalising taste of a sleazy synth-pop future where man and machine live in harmony and everyone wears shiny silver suits and have names like Zolgar and Danzet. But as time rolls on and with the invention of the hover-car still some way off, this bunch of bouffanted fashionistas are beginning to resemble a bleak, Orwellian version of The Jetsons. Current single Destroy Everything You Touch aside, the album fails to claw back any of the Tron's faltering credibility, ultimately sentencing them to be filed away in Room 101 alongside The Cooper Temple Clause.

TUNED TO LOVE

The Loose Salute (album, Heavenly)

Kicking off with something of a Beach Boys vibe, this rapidly descends into a sub-Thrills kind of countrified Beautiful South. Pretty much all of these tunes have been done a million times before and there is little in the way of any new twist, whether it's the keyboard-drum parts or the cheesy lead guitar licks. The closest thing to a USP is the male/female split vocals – fine, in general, but no technique is brilliant by default and the harmonies here are nothing to write home about.

THESE ARE OUR HANDS

Rotary Ten (album, Xtra Mile)

Another mouthy Sheffield band make a bid for superstardom with their debut album, but unlike a certain bunch of Monkeys their tunes fall somewhat short of the benchmark. They've got their indie shopping list right – stop-start guitars, angular hooks, occasional yelps and studied cool – but they haven't quite got the nous to bring it all together. When they do stray from the overbearingly generic Woolworths indie of Counting At Me and These Men Are Made Of Rust there's a glimmer of a spark of potential brilliance (the drums and bass onslaught of Strategy) but they've got a long way to go before they reach the dizzy heights of their local peers.

Peugeot's seven wonder

TALK about the big build-up. Having to follow the phenomenal success story that was the 206 is a task that would be beyond most cars. Peugeot has stepped up to the plate with the 207, a model that's bigger and, it trusts, better in almost every way.

Pivotal to the success of the range are the diesel models, and the French company hasn't taken the task of developing top-notch, small-capacity diesel engines lightly. Small wonder that BMW came knocking when looking for a company to show it how to build such units.

There's a choice of three diesel engines. These consist of second-generation, common-rail, high-pressure, direct-injection powerplants and start with a 1.4-litre HDi producing 70bhp, followed by a 1.6-litre HDi 16-valve delivering 90bhp and a range-topping version of the same engine with a variable geometry turbocharger that helps it produce 110bhp.

All these units are a result of the joint venture between PSA Peugeot Citroën and BMW Group, the 207 being the first Peugeot model to use them. You'll also find a version in the MINI range in case you were wondering what BMW gets from the deal.

Although few can hold a candle to the Germans when it comes to producing larger diesel engines, engineering a high-efficiency compact unit takes more than just lopping a couple of cylinders off or whittling the engine's capacity down.

Fiendishly complicated non-linear thermodynamics mean that although the principles are the same, the practice of building a small diesel is quite different and Peugeot has long been at the forefront of this particular field. These diesel engines are a case in point. The 1.4-litre features a combined economy figure of 62.7mpg and will get to 60mph in 15.1 seconds, not bad considering the size of the 207 – it's a big hunk of metal.

Step up to the 90bhp 1.6-litre and fuel consumption remains identically healthy at 62.7mpg, but it's usefully pacier, breaching 60mph from rest in 11.5 seconds.

There's a £1,100 premium to move from 1.4 to 1.6-litre.

Finally, there are the most interesting models of the lot – the 1.6-litre 110bhp cars. Fuel consumption here is trimmed to 58.7mpg, but this engine will allow the 207 to hit 60mph in 10 seconds dead and keep going to 120mph. Three trim levels are offered in this guise: SE, Sport and the more aggressive-looking GT.

The 207 HDi 110 GT is an undeniably handsome piece of styling, the big front grille now starting to rest easier on the eye than when it was first introduced, and the elegantly tapered rear profile gives the car a squat, dynamic stance on the road.

This is helped by 17-inch alloy wheels which fill the wheel arches quite convincingly and, when finished in white, it's a real head turner, looking like an émigré from a rally stage in the best Peugeot tradition.

The chromed fog lamps peer beadily out from each side of the grille, and while it's neither as pretty nor as cohesive a piece of styling as the 206, it undeniably has more presence.

The engine lacks a tiny bit of torque at the very bottom of its rev range, but it pulls strongly thereafter, reminding you to give it a little more in the way of revs than you often would with a turbodiesel hatch. Think of it as Peugeot's way of keeping you on your mettle.

Everything about the 207 feels better the harder you drive the car. The rather numb electrically-assisted power steering weights up very nicely when you get your game face on and the suspension offers far better composure than the old 206. The 207 is also a whole lot easier to see out of than its predecessor.

Sitting inside the new 207, you can immediately sense that this car is far removed from the 206 in terms of its quality and elegance. Plus the 207, even in its most basic trim level, is head and shoulders above its equivalent 206 model in refinement. The elegant centre panel houses all the usual heating, ventilation and audio switches, and the binnacle behind the steering wheel features three circular dials, mirroring those usually seen on a motorcycle. The overall effect is very pleasing and gives the impression of a very upmarket product.

The front seats are comfortable and appear to give good support. In the rear, as with most vehicles in this sector, the available space is rather limited to the size of the passenger and driver seated in the front. With the front seats fully extended backwards, the space in the back can be a bit restricted. This is the 207's Achilles heel and families would do well to consider that despite being the joint biggest car in the class on the outside, the 207 comes plum last when it comes to rear seat space.

Safety has been designed into the 207 and the car has earned a five-star rating from the EuroNCAP tests. The 207's front end contains two impact absorption structures borrowed from the 407 that distribute impact energy more efficiently in the event of a collision. Sill reinforcements and tubular bars in the doors aid structural rigidity.

Numerous airbags are installed in the 207 and the front two 'adaptive' airbags have a dual-generator function that can vary their pressures according to the severity of the impact. Side airbags and curtain airbags feature as standard or as an option, depending on the model level. All 207s are fitted with two 3-point Isofix mountings in the rear outer seats, each of which can accommodate a child's Isofix car safety seat.

The 207 will have its work cut out to replicate the success of its predecessor, but it gets a decent start with these three diesel-engined models. There are some very talented rivals about, not least of which is Renault's latest – and very spacious – Clio, but Peugeot is confident of history repeating. Time will tell.

1,000 reasons to come to 'Gates'

MR EDWARD GATES, President of local Ford Main Dealer Group – 'Gates,' was delighted to present a commemorative carriage clock to each of five employees who have recently completed 20 years' service with the company.

The presentation was made at a recent celebration dinner held at The Starr Restaurant in Great Dunmow and was attended by staff throughout the group, who have similarly achieved this land mark in years of service.

Established in 1920 'Gates' are particularly pleased that this bi-annual event continues to have an increasing number of members in attendance.

Mr. Heath Greenall, the current Managing Director who represents the fifth generation of this family owned and operated business said that "we take great pride in the dedication that all of our staff gives to the Company and to our customers, which is vital to our continued success."

With 36 members of the 'Gates 20 Year Service Club' in attendance if you added together their total service in the motor industry with Gates it would total over 1,000 years of experience!

Buying Office Administrator

Working closely with our buyers, you will co-ordinate the transit of goods between our warehouse and suppliers. We need a bright, organised and capable person able to work methodically and accurately, as there is an element of data entry input.

Customer Services Assistant

You will be liaising with customers both face-to-face and over the telephone and dealing with suppliers to resolve queries and customer complaints. To succeed you will have excellent communication skills and be able to implement sound common sense to reach agreed solutions.

Office experience is essential for both roles together with basic keyboard skills.
These opportunities offer variety and job satisfaction and no two days will be the same.

A high degree of coaching and encouraging of your people is required through the training and development of their skills. The ability to lead and motivate teams communicating at all levels within a business is a prerequisite.

Qualified to at least HND/HNC level in Engineering or equivalent experience.

Mechanical Designer

Reporting to the Development Manager, you will be responsible for the mechanical design of the company's range of OEM laser diode products. The role requires good knowledge of small electro-mechanical assemblies, particularly turned components, and the ability to produce detailed engineering and assembly drawings.

Managing projects from conception through to production, other tasks will range from specifying components, generating BOM's to designing production jigs and fixtures.

The role involves working both independently and with the rest of our design and engineering team and will suit a proactive self-motivated individual with a "can-do" attitude able to find effective real world solutions to mechanical design problems.

Qualified to at least HND/HNC level in Mechanical Engineering or equivalent experience with knowledge of AutoCAD and ideally Inventor CAD systems.

Internal Sales Person

Responsibilities will include providing support to the Sales team, responding to e-mail and telephone enquiries, sending and progressing quotations, providing customer support, and proactively contacting prospective customers.

A good team player with a lively personality, flexible approach and the ability to work on your own initiative, you will be comfortable dealing with customers from the UK, Europe and the US generating sales in a diverse range of markets including Medical, Industrial, Construction and Automotive. It would be an advantage to have had previous sales experience and, whilst technical knowledge is not essential, the ability to learn and understand technical issues is required. Good general computer skills are a prerequisite and some knowledge of Microsoft Office would be beneficial.

HOUSING DIRECTORATE

HOMELESSNESS PREVENTION OFFICER

Ref: HOT/12T

Salary: £11,091 to £12,260 including inner London Fringe Allowance (increasing to £12,657 after a minimum 5 years' service)

Part-time 18 hours per week

Temporary contract to at least 31st March 2011

The vacancy will be available from the beginning of September 2008

Reporting to the Senior Homelessness Prevention Officer, you will be giving advice and assistance to people at risk of becoming homeless, often visiting them in their own homes. You will liaise with the Housing Benefits Division, families, landlords, mortgage lenders, letting agents, mediation service and others.

Good interpersonal skills are essential as is knowledge of services available to support people in vulnerable situations. Professional experience of debt management will be an advantage.

You will work 18 hours a week, including Wednesday afternoon, Thursday and Friday.

The role is based within the Housing Options Team at the modern Civic Offices in the market town of Epping and carries an essential car user allowance. You must have a current full driving licence and use of a car at all times.

This post attracts the benefit of the Council's flexi-leave scheme but does not attract a relocation package.

As this post will result in contact with children, a CRB check will be required.

OLDER PEOPLES SERVICES

HOUSING ASSISTANT

Ref: HOP/17

Salary: £7,484 - £7,961 p.a. inclusive (Maximum salary increased to £8,120 p.a. inclusive after a minimum of 5 years' service)

18 hours per week over four days 10.00am - 2.30pm

Do you have an interest in working with older people?

Do you have enthusiasm and a caring manner?

Are you able to organise your own workload?

Are you looking for an interesting and varied job?

You could be the person we are looking for. This post involves supporting Epping Forest Careline by providing general administrative support in relation to the installation of telecare equipment. You will also be involved with testing and installing equipment and covering the call answering service in times of staff shortage. In the absence of a Scheme Manager, you will be visiting older people across the district ensuring their well-being and supporting them to live independently. This is a varied job for a flexible individual, who is willing to assist in many functions relating to the Council's busy Older Peoples Services section.

You must hold a current full driving licence and own a car as essential users car allowance will be payable.

You should note that this post is exempt from the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974.

You will be based at Epping Forest Careline, Parsonage Court, Loughton. This post does not attract a relocation package.

For an application pack for either post, please contact Human Resources Unit, Epping Forest District Council. Telephone: 01992 564433 (24 hour answer service). E-mail: jobs@eppingforestdc.gov.uk (no CVs please). Please quote the relevant reference number. All our vacancies can be viewed at www.eppingforestdc.gov.uk/jobs

Closing date for both posts: Noon, 19th June 2008.

MRC Laboratory of Molecular Biology, Cambridge

Due to expansion, the LMB wishes to attract Animal Technicians to join our dedicated team, located on the Babraham Research Campus, south of Cambridge. In the near future, there will be a relocation to our new state-of-the-art £31m rodent facility, located on the campus.

Senior Animal Technician (Ref: LMB08/287)

£19,430 - £26,555 (plus £3,000 allowance for licensed animal technicians)

The position requires:

- A thorough understanding of rodent GA stock and breeding colony management, demonstrating a hands-on approach.
- Demonstrate high standards of animal-care and welfare provision and continually strive towards Best Practise.
- A conscientious approach and careful maintenance of records ensuring compliance with all Home Office and Health and Safety legislation.
- Effective training and mentoring skills to provide a key role-model for the team.
- IAT Membership or equivalent, and a relevant Home Office Personal Licence.
- Current laboratory animal experience ideally for GA rodents.
- Knowledge of conventional and transgenic breeding programmes and working within a barrier.

Key Responsibilities:

- Provide supervision, motivation and training to a small team of technicians, including organising husbandry and experimental activities.
- Contribution to and compliance with SOPs, Risk Assessments and maintenance of Staff Training Records.
- Demonstrate excellent interpersonal communication skills between our scientists and the team.

Animal Technician (Ref: LMB08/288)

£15,326 - £19,000 (plus £2,500 allowance for licensed animal technicians)

The position requires:

- Ideally some experience as a Laboratory Animal Technician but may also suit those with no previous experience.
- A genuine interest in working with animals, especially rodents.
- A conscientious and methodical approach.
- Demonstrates high standard of animal-care and welfare.
- IAT Certificate or similar qualification or a minimum of 3 GCSE's grades A-C or equivalent in Maths, English and a science subject.

Key Responsibilities:

- Care and maintenance of conventional and Genetically Altered research animals (predominately mice) within open top and IVC caging systems.
- Changing cage bases for clean items - prepared from central cage-wash area.
- Keep and organise detailed records for both breeding and stock colonies using both paper and computer methods.
- Liaise closely with scientific staff for whose animals the postholder is responsible.

The MRC fully supports and encourages continued professional development and on-going staff training including NVQ Level 2 and 3 qualifications, which is taught in-house. For these positions there may be opportunity for day release to gain job related qualifications, full training on the job can also be provided.

Offering excellent terms and conditions, these full-time permanent positions offer a 36 hour working week, routine over-time for additional pay plus travel allowance, we will also consider individuals looking for part-time work, job-share or flexible working arrangements. The salary is supported by a flexible pay and reward policy, 30 days annual leave plus 2.5 privilege days, optional MRC final salary pension scheme and excellent on-site sports and social facilities.

These positions are subject to pre-employment screening.

Applications must be made online at <http://jobs.mrc.ac.uk> inputting the reference number above. Please include a CV and covering letter with your application. If you do not have access to the internet or experience technical difficulties please contact 01793 301280.

Closing date: 18 June 2008.

The centre of the crossing will be at a point approximately 24.6 metres east from the centreline of School Lane on First Avenue, Harlow.

First Avenue, Harlow

The centre of the crossing will be at a point approximately 22.3 metres east from the centreline of Monkswick Road on First Avenue, Harlow.

To facilitate the construction of the new puffin crossings The Essex County Council is to install temporary pedestrian crossings controlled by signals in the District of Harlow as specified:-

Road
First Avenue, Harlow

Distance/Location

The centre of the crossing will be at a point approximately 28.8 metres east from the centreline of School Lane on First Avenue, Harlow.

First Avenue, Harlow

The centre of the crossing will be at a point approximately 27.2 metres east from the centreline of Monkswick Road on First Avenue, Harlow.

The temporary pedestrian crossings will be removed once works for the permanent pedestrian crossings has been completed.

FURTHER DETAILS: A statement of reasons, a copy of this notice, and a plan indicating the location of the proposed pedestrian crossings may be examined at Development Highways & Transportation, County Hall, Chelmsford; Harlow District Council, Town Hall, Harlow; and Harlow Library, The High, Harlow.

OBJECTIONS: Anyone who wishes to object to the proposed crossings should send the grounds for their objection in writing to 'TRO comments - Harlow First Ave Bus Lane Scheme, Planning and Transportation, Development, Highways and Transportation, County Hall, Chelmsford, Essex, CM1 1QH' or e-mail to majorschemes@essex.gov.uk by 27 June 2008.

Dated: 5 June 2008.

Tennis ladies in the Essex final

HARLOW Tennis Club ladies first team have booked a spot in the final of the Essex Cup at Gidea Park on June 22 after beating Brentwood 4-0 at home in the last four.

Pat Kendall and Gill Fuller won 6-2, 7-5 in their first rubber, playing against Brentwood Lawn's first pair. Hollie Brown and Laura Wills won 7-6, 6-2 playing against their second pair.

Brown and Wills started the match slowly but then their weight of shot proved decisive against the opposition's second pairing. Kendall and Fuller clinched the match by winning their first set 6-2 before winning the next 6-3.

Brown and Wills then completed a clean sweep by beating the Brentwood first pair 2-0. They won the first set 7-6 on a tie-break before sweeping to a 6-0 victory in the second one.

The match was played in ideal conditions – warm and cloudy with a little wind and no glare from the sun.

Admiral sails to a darts victory

WHITE Admiral defeated CC Foxes to retain the Harlow and District K-O Eights Championship at Great Parndon Community Association Centre on Friday.

Admiral enjoyed a narrow first round win over CC Whites before beating MH Arrows and Young Pretenders in the last eight and four, respectively.

Foxes, who are lowly placed in the league, had defied the odds to reach the final. After receiving a first round bye, Foxes defeated Swift Halfs and UG Social to get to the final.

The competition also saw league champions Servo Hawks lose their first round game to MH Arrows.

Reds show a lot of get up and go!

THEY may not have won cups and trophies, but Harlow Town U-11 Reds get plenty of marks for their character.

The team won three and drew just one of their 20 games in the U-11 league of the Harlow Star Youth Community Football League.

This resulted in them finishing 9th out of 11 teams in a league

dominated by two very strong sides.

Langley Colts Stallions were champions with 55 points ahead of second-placed Ware with 52.

Reds, who play their home games at Tanys Dell Primary School, in Harlow, conceded 111 goals and scored 37.

Reds manager Steve Chapman said: "There are some very good sides in that league and they take the better players, but we are open to all standards. I like to see average players get better.

"We have two or three players that are quite useful and I believe we will do better next year.

"Even after they get beaten heavily, they are all there for training on a Wednesday ready to go again. We do try to play football and not just hoof the ball."

First defeat in years for town

SLOPPY batting from Harlow Town cost them dearly at home as they slipped to their first league defeat in two years.

Facing a moderate score of 141 posted by South Loughton seconds, they struggled as wickets fell at regular intervals.

Batsmen got themselves out too easily, with the slow bowler John Davies claiming 5-27 from 10 overs.

Only Shiraz Ali (38) and Wade Norcott (35 not out) escaped the general malaise, with the latter running out of partners.

Davies claimed the final wicket of Simon Rowell, who was stumped by wicket keeper Raqibul Hussan to leave

South Loughton II 141, Harlow Town 132

Harlow Town lost by nine runs (Lord's International Herts and Essex Cricket League div three)

Town 10 runs short of the winning score.

Earlier, stand-in skipper Scott Alderson won the toss and put South Loughton into bat.

The Town change bowlers were more effective than the openers, with Ramaya Upadhyay (1-17) and Shiraz Ali (1-18) exerting the pressure on a pudding-like wicket that did not encourage flowing strokeplay.

Loughton opener Morne Modler stayed around to make a crucial 49 before he was bowled by Ashley Alderson, who mopped up the tail and took 3-9.

● IN division five, Harlow Town seconds (75) lost to Hatfield Heath (79-3) by seven wickets, and in division seven, Harlow Town III (95) also lost to High Roding thirds (183-3) by 88 runs.

In division three, Potter Street (178) went down by five wickets at Dunmow seconds (181-5). Extras (42) plus knocks from Chaudhry Wahid (31) and Mushtaq Ahmed (35) were the main contributors to Street's score, while the visitors wicket takers were Paul Lenihan (2-20) and Wahid (3-24).

In division seven, Potter Street II (197-4) lost to Albury (198-4) at home by six wickets.

Runners work hard to secure fourth

ALAN Broughton was the first Harlow Running Club member to complete the second Midweek Road Race League event.

Broughton, a Vet 40 runner, completed the Stevenage course in 37m 18s, coming 21st, and he was closely followed home by Alan Wise (37:41, 24th).

Last Thursday's race was won by Shaftesbury Barnet Harriers runner Kevin Robertson in 33:00.

Other Harlow male runners to complete the course in under 40 minutes were Vet 50 runners John Tennant (39:40, 39th) and Roy Steven (39:45, 41st).

The first three Harlow female finishers all came in the women's top 20.

They were Sharon Wright (45:40, 12th), Vicky Steadman (46:13, 16th) and Vet 35 runner Dionne Jones (46:23, 17th) with them coming 125th, 139th and 142nd overall.

The top 12 male and six female runners in each team had their places counted for the team race, which saw Harlow placed fourth overall.

They were fourth and third, respectively, in the men's and women's races.

● OTHER Harlow results: Men: Justin Revell 40:25, 50th; Colin Moody (Vet 50) 40:31, 52nd; Andrew Terrell 41:45, 63rd; Graham Thomas (Vet 40) 41:46, 64th; John Evans 41:54, 67th; Jon

Luke's winning trio after poor opening

LUKE Bowen suffered a poor start before going on to win three races for Rye House Rockets in their 62-30 home victory over Birmingham Brummies in the quarter-final first leg of the speedway Premier League Knockout Cup.

The 22-year-old speedway rider from Harlow failed to score after falling in his opening race.

"I was really annoyed about what happened in my first race," Bowen said. "I went into the bend a bit too fast and couldn't control the bike. Had it not been for that, I might have had a maximum night."

Bowen revealed he was growing in confidence at every meeting, with his shoulder (which he injured at the start of the season) getting stronger all the time.

"I'm starting to feel a lot better. I think I may have come back a few weeks too early after the injury, but now I'm beginning to get some good starts and it's all coming together."

Bowen also claimed a third spot in Saturday's event, with him taking 10 points for the Hoddesdon-based Rye House Rockets.

The second leg takes place at Birmingham on June 25, with Rye House Rockets strongly placed to claim a spot in the semi-finals.

Rye House Promoter Len Sivler said: "It is very nice indeed to have a 32-point cushion to take to Birmingham for the second leg."

Athletics records for a day to remember

SIX Harlow based athletes set seven personal bests (PBs) plus a club record in helping Woodford Green AC to come second in a Southern Division Young Athletes League. The record in Sunday's meeting, at Mayesbrook Park, in Barking, came in the last event the 4x400 metres U-17 men's relay.

Tom Larkin and Aidan Lee respectively ran fine solo efforts of 53.1s and 49.6s in smashing the old record of 3m 30.2s set in 1982, with the team setting a new one of 3:26.4. Cherice McKay threw the shot 10.25m (PB), a UK Grade 1 and English Schools standard, in coming 2nd in the U-17 girls. This was after she came second in the discus (23.06m).

In the same age group, Sophie Fuhr claimed two PBs when she came third 5:07.4 in the 1,500m (5:07.4) and another in the discus (16.95), where she finished third in the B string.

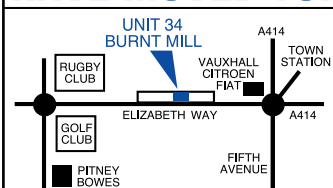

In the U-17 men category, Tom Richards excelled claiming second spot and a PB in the U-17 men's javelin (48.30m), while Dan Yaxley clocked a PB of 9:51 to finish third in the 3,000m.

He then set another PB of 5:19 in the 1,500m steeplechase. Tom Larkin clocked a PB of 11.7s, coming third in the U-17 men's 100m.

Two Harlow-based runners competed for Loughton AC in a Southern Women's League meeting at Uxbridge.

Joanne Ryan claimed two first spots in the 100m (12.5s) and 200m (25.00s), while Mary Ryan was first in the triple jump (8.80m) and second in the 100m (13.3s).

Rivals narrowly see off Sawbridgeworth

SAWBRIDGEWORTH slipped to a narrow defeat at close rivals Bishop's Stortford in an absorbing low-scoring game on Saturday.

The two sides had not met for five years in the league and Sawbridgeworth were put into bat after home skipper David Hughes won the toss. Sawbridgeworth struggled against the accurate home attack and Andrew Richardson top-scored with 35, the other main contribution coming from Danny Wilson (26).

All the home attack bowled well, with left arm spinner Steve Coleman taking 6-53. In reply, Stortford's innings was held together by Hughes, who was crucially dropped twice before he went on to make 51.

None of the other specialist batsmen impressed and it was left to all-rounders Darren Whittingham (20 not out) and Ruan Premadasa (12 not out) to guide the hosts home.

Dean Lloyd took 3-42 for the visitors.

Superb Tom bowls over!

Old Southendian and Southchurch 101, Harlow 103-6

Harlow won by four wickets
(Shepherd Neame Essex League, div two)

TOM Worthington was the hero as his superb bowling display set up Harlow for their second league win of the season, putting them second in the table.

The Kiwi opening bowler exploited the green conditions at Old Southendian and Southchurch on Saturday to take an incredible 6-9 from 11 overs, with two runs coming from no balls!

Worthington said: "Things went right for me and I got the ball in the right areas. Zap (Nazir) bowled well at the other end and kept up the pressure and that helped."

Harlow skipper James Butler won the toss and put the hosts in.

Worthington immediately made an impact. He had a home opener caught with the second ball of the game being well taken by Zap Nazir at second slip.

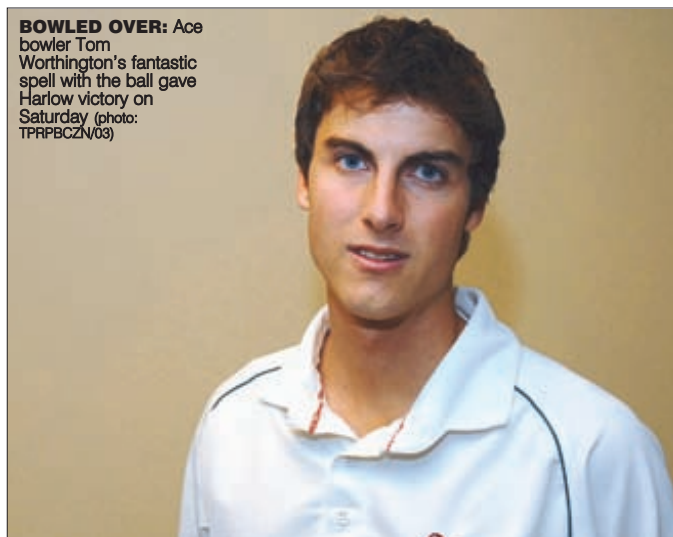

Worthington then took the game by the scruff of the neck with an amazing spell of bowling while he was given admirable support by Nazir (2-38).

Only middle order batsman Tom Breakey (43) offered any resistance with the willow, as the hosts collapsed to 101 all out, leaving Harlow nearly four hours to get the runs.

The hosts elected to use both their spinners with the new ball which reaped rewards as the previous week's centurion Nilesh Odedra spooned a catch to extra cover.

Simon Baulcomb and Nick Butler put on a valuable partnership but when Butler hit experienced off-spinner Dave Slaughter out of the attack.

Harlow eased home with the odd fright and Nick Butler went on to make 53. His good knock added to his five wicket haul the previous week.

Happy Harlow skipper James Butler said: "They were very difficult batting conditions and the lads did well to grind out this result."

"Tom Worthington wants to do well and he works so hard. He bowled beautifully and was outstanding with the ball."

"He did what we want our overseas players to do, proving to be practically unplayable in those conditions."

He added: "Nick batted in a positive manner which was important and he looks in good form this year with bat and ball."

● IN division one of the 2nd XI league, Harlow seconds (178-9, Nicky Baxter 48) beat Ardleigh Green (174, Nilesh Modhwadia 4-21) by one wicket at home and in division one of the 3rd XI league, Harlow (163, Ryan Jessey 94) lost by 61 runs at West Essex (224, Steve Green 5-52).

Home loss for Epping as middle falters

BAD middle order batting and a couple of dropped chances cost Epping dearly as they slumped to a home defeat at the hands of Stanford le Hope.

In response to the visitors' 242-6, the hosts were well-placed on 115-2.

A win looked to be on the cards but the wheels came off badly when Dean Majeed went for 35 and Ify Raja a brilliant 50.

Epping's middle foolishly gave away their wickets when sound heads and steady batting was all that was needed to secure

Stanford le Hope 242 for 6 dec, Epping 185

Epping lost by 57 runs
(Shepherd Neame Essex League div three) victory with plenty of time left.

Middle order batsmen Geoff Maynard (14), Amjad Kan (12), Mebs Raja (12), Farhan Haq (10) and Inath Hasan (11) all got starts without going to play the major innings which the hosts needed for the win.

Stanford seamer Kevin Smith became the star of the show. He bowled a steady line and length on a wicket that offered little to the bowlers.

Smith went on to take 7-94, which deservedly gave the visitors the win. He was offered useful support by Bill Poskitt, who took 2-51.

Earlier, Epping's bowlers had found it difficult to bowl in very wet conditions and pace man Dean Majeed was confined to just one over.

Stanford's Nathan Shearer hit a classy 95 but Epping did not help their cause by dropping him twice and these errors played a major part in their downfall. L Knight (48 not out) played the other significant innings.

Epping's most successful bowler was Hasan, who took 3-59 from 15 overs, while Tim Adams (1-32) and Haq (1-19) were the other wicket-takers.
